“DHL utilise MES to provide us with Static Guards at our offices in Basra.

We were impressed by the fact MES are a native company who have links with the local community and tribal leaders, this means they can provide us with a more intuitive and effective service. They truly understand the security situation and have in-depth knowledge of operational area atmospherics which is critical in providing us with the best levels of security.

Once we awarded the contract to MES they stood up to the project very proficiently and they have been very attentive to our needs ever since. We have been consistently impressed with the reliability and the professionalism of all MES personnel since they have been contracted as our Static Guard services provider.

It is clear that MES takes the training of their staff very seriously, ensuring minimum standards in all static guard duties including static guarding, access control and patrolling, communications procedures, medical, weapon handling, understanding of SOPs and International Humanitarian Law are all adhered to.

Our experience with MES has been flawless and critical in enabling us to carry out our operations safely and efficiently.”
